It also describes your rights to access and control your protected health information. "Protected health information" is information about you, including demographic information, that may identify you and that relates to your past, present or future physical or mental health or condition and related health care services.

We are required to abide by the terms of this Notice of Privacy Practices. We may change the terms of our notice, at any time. The new notice will be effective for all protected health information that we maintain at that time. Upon your request, we will provide you with any revised Notice of Privacy Practices. You may request a revised version by accessing our website, or calling the office and requesting that a revised copy be sent to you in the mail or asking for one at the time of your next appointment.

1. USES AND DISCLOSURES OF PROTECTED HEALTH INFORMATION

Your protected health information may be used and disclosed by your physician, our office staff and others outside of our office who are involved in your care and treatment for the purpose of providing health care services to you. Your protected health information may also be used and disclosed to pay your health care bills and to support the operation of your physician's practice.

Following are examples of the types of uses and disclosures of your protected health information that your physician's office is permitted to make. These examples are not meant to be exhaustive, but to describe the types of uses and disclosures that may be made by our office.

We will also disclose protected health information to other physicians who may be treating you. For example, your protected health information may be provided to a physician to whom you have been referred to ensure that the physician has the necessary information to diagnose or treat you. In addition, we may disclose your protected health information from time-to-time to another physician or health care provider (e.g., a specialist or laboratory) who, at the request of your physician, becomes involved in your care by providing assistance with your health care diagnosis or treatment to your physician. If you object to this, please contact our Privacy Officer immediately so we can make accommodations.

Payment: Your protected health information will be used and disclosed, as needed, to obtain payment for your health care services provided by us or by another provider. This may include certain activities that your health insurance plan may undertake before it approves or pays for the health care services we recommend for you such as: making a determination of eligibility or coverage for insurance benefits, reviewing services provided to you for medical necessity, and undertaking utilization review activities. The following questions may be helpful in understanding if a potential patient has chronic venous insufficiency (CVI)

1. Do you have bulging or varicose veins? Varicose veins are large, bulging veins, as opposed to spider veins, which are thin, branching veins just beneath the skin's surface.

2. Do your leg(s) ever feel heavy, tired or achy – especially at the end of the day? – If so, do your leg(s) feel better with rest and elevation?

3. Do your legs swell at the end of the day?

4. Have you ever worn, or been advised to wear, compression stockings?

5. Have you had any treatments or procedures for vein problems? – If so, what treatment(s) or procedures(s)?

6. Do you stand for long periods of time, such as at work?

7. Do you frequently engage in heavy lifting?

8. For women: Have you ever been pregnant? – If so, how many times?

In practice, we have found that venous insufficiency can cause, or lead to, chronic low back pain as well as lower extremity symptoms. In an effort to treat you completely, it can be helpful to identify if these symptoms exist and if there is something else that can be done to address the problem.
